

On Spaces and Places

Aditya Rau

“Human nature will not flourish, any more than a potato, if it be planted and replanted, for too long a series of generations, in the same worn-out soil.

My children have had other birthplaces, and, so far as their fortunes may be within my control, shall strike their roots into unaccustomed earth.”

–Nathaniel Hawthorne

“Place bestows on us our original awareness; and our critical powers spring up from the study of it and the growth of experience inside it.

Carried off we might be in spirit, and should be, it is the sense of place going with us still that is the ball of golden thread to carry us there and back and in every sense of the word to bring us home.”

–Eudora Welty
